AN AIRSHIP GENIUS

OREGON MAN WOULD FLY TO NEW YORK.

James W. Carlton now in this city, has a plan by which he can make a fortune of $2,000,000 on an investment of $600—Seeks a Local Capitalist Who is Willing to Put Up $600 in Cash Against His Genius and Perfect a Flying Machine.

James W. Carlton, late of Portland, who is now staying in this city, says there is a fortune of $2,000,000 awaiting him in New York City when he arrives in the metropolis.

But he must go to New York from Pendleton in an airship built on a plan now revolving in his head. So far, not even a sketch of the machine is drawn on paper. It is all in his head, but the $2,000,000 is waiting for him, just the same.

Carlton is an airship genius, one of the species that now swarm in all classes of the world's people, and he is anxious to secure capital to put his project into execution. Carlton will furnish the genius, the capitalist will furnish the $600 necessary to build and equip the ship, Carlton and the capitalist will sail to New York and divide the $2,000,000, and live happily ever after. All very easy. Plan is great. Just like getting money from home. Genius is surely golden.

Carlton has a scheme which he wishes to introduce to some Pendleton man having $600. It is to build an airship on a plan radically different from any one yet tried, and which seems to Carlton to be a practical and feasible system.

The airship project now in embryo in his mind is to construct a cigar-shaped balloon, with gasoline engine, wings, rudder, propeller, steering gear and all complete. Carlton says he built a model six feet long and that it flew satisfactorily. He now wants to build a real thing 40 feet long, and is willing to risk a flight in it—if some one will furnish the $600 to build it.

Carlton is an Oregonian, and has been studying airships for eight years. He is confident that $2,000,000 is awaiting the man who arrives in New York in a ship built after his plan. This will be a high rate of interest on $600 for six months. In the meantime Carlton is waiting here for an opportunity to wed his genius to somebody's $600.

JAPANESE OUTLAW

MAKES WAR ON RUSSIA
WITHOUT AUTHORITY.

Not Allowed to Serve in the Japanese Army Even as a Private—Becomes a Leader of Chinese Outlaws and is Making Trouble for Russia in a Guerrilla Warfare—Declares He Will Yet Operate in Siberia.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 17.—The "News of the Manchurian Army," published in this city, declares that the most daring band of Hungchuses in Manchuria is commanded by a disgraced Japanese colonel, named Hiyodi, whose history is described as follows:

When the war broke out Hiyodi asked to be readmitted to the army as a private soldier. His request was refused. He then declared, it is said, that he would make war on his own account. He shipped to the Yalu in a junk, and, making his way overland, obtained a chieftainship among the Hungchuses by distributing liberally forged paper money. Hiyodi first operated on the railway near Taschichao, but has now gone north. He is a big, bearded man, resembling a European, but dresses in Chinese garb, wearing a chrysanthemum flag as a necktie. He invariably charges at the head of his men, and once shot down a subordinate for running ahead of him.

Hiyodi has sworn to make war on Russia as long as he has life. "Japan," he says, "may make peace, but I will continue the war as long as I live. If Russia is driven from Manchuria, I will migrate to Siberia, and make war there."
